Copyright and License

For all articles published in the journal Acta Medica Mediterranea, the copyright remains with the authors. The articles are published under a Creative Commons CC BY 4.0 open-access license, meaning anyone can download and read the document for free. Furthermore, the paper may be reused and cited acknowledging the original published version. These conditions allow full fruition and visibility of the work while guaranteeing due recognition to the authors.

In exceptional cases, it may be possible to grant a different license for the items. If there are specific conditions (e.g., funding related) that prevent you from obtaining this license, please notify the journal editor during the submission process. The publisher may make exceptions at its discretion. Authors must obtain permission to reproduce any published material (such as figures, diagrams, tables or text excerpts) that is not in the public domain or owned by them. Authors should seek permission from the copyright holder (usually the publisher, refer to the imprint of individual publications to identify the copyright holder). Authorization is required for: your works published by other publishers of which you do not own the copyright; substantial extracts from any copyrighted work or series of works; the use of unmodified or only slightly modified tables, charts, diagrams, schemes and artwork; photographs not owned by the author.

Authorization is not required to: rebuild your table with data already published elsewhere (as long as the source of the data is acknowledged); short quotations deemed fair use; Completely redesigned and significantly changed beyond recognition graphics, diagrams, schemes and artwork. It is advisable to start applying for permits as soon as possible to avoid publication delays. If in doubt about copyright, it's best to ask for permission. Acta Medica Mediterranea cannot publish material without the permission of the copyright holder. The copyright holder may provide specific citation instructions, otherwise the style "Reproduced with permission from [author], [book/journal title]; published by [publisher], [year]" may be used at the end of the caption. table, figure or diagram.
